REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The primary reason for allowance of claims 1-30 is the inclusion of a seal assembly having a main body portion including a first layer defining a first opening, an adherent layer with at least one masking region covered by at least one kiss-cut release liner; a tear-able layer adhered to the first surface of the adherent layer except where the at least one masking region is covered by the kiss-cut release liner. The kiss-cut release liner is covered by the tear-able layer and a pull-strip is connected to the tear-able layer. This is found in all of claims 1-30, but not disclosed nor suggested by the prior art of record.

The primary reason for allowance of claims 31 and 34 is the inclusion of a method of forming a seal assembly by forming a kiss-cut in the first release layer to generate a masking portion and a removable non-masking portion and an open central region forming a full cut opening through at least the first release layer and the adherent layer; removing the open central region to unblock the opening through at least the first release layer and the adherent layer; removing the removable non-masking portion of the first release layer to generate an exposed portion of the first adhesive surface of the adherent layer; placing a tearing layer over the exposed portion of the first adhesive surface of the adherent layer and over the masking portion of the release layer; wherein the masking portion of the first release layer prevents a portion of the tearing layer from adhering to the adherent layer; wherein there is a pull-strip attached to the seal assembly. This is found in all of claims 31 and 34, but not disclosed nor suggested by the prior art of record.

The primary reason for allowance of claims 32, 36, and 38 is the inclusion of a method of forming a seal assembly by providing a main body portion including a first layer defining a first opening, forming a kiss-cut fully through the release layer, wherein the kiss-cut separates the release liner layer into at least one masking portion and at least one non-masking portion; removing the non-masking portion of release liner layer to generate an exposed portion of the adherent layer thereby further provided a non-exposed portion of the adherent layer under the masking portion of the release liner layer; adhering a layer of tear-able material to the exposed portion of the adherent layer, wherein a pull-strip is attached to the layer of tear-able material. This is found in all of claims 32, 36, and 38 but not disclosed nor suggested by the prior art of record.

The primary reason for allowance of claims 33-35 and 37 is the inclusion of a method of forming a shipping seal assembly for a toner hopper or toner storage tank by forming a kiss-cut in the first release layer to generate a masking portion and a removable non-masking portion and forming a full cut causing a separation between usable material and waste material to be discarded and thereby forming an opening through at least the first release layer and the adherent layer; removing the waste material to unblock the opening through at least the first release layer and the adherent layer; removing the removable non-masking portion of the first release layer to generate an exposed portion of the first adhesive surface of the adherent layer; placing a tearing layer over the exposed portion of the first adhesive surface of the adherent layer and over the masking portion of the release layer; wherein the masking portion of the first release layer prevents a portion of the tearing layer from adhering to the adherent layer; wherein there is a pull-strip attached to the shipping seal assembly; and removing the second release layer and installing the shipping seal assembly on the attach surface of the toner hopper or toner storage tank. This is found in all of claims 33-35, and 37, but not disclosed nor suggested by the prior art of record.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
